

outpatient physiatry

We dedicate ourselves to maximizing the potential of every child by providing excellent pediatric medical and rehabilitative services led by our team of pediatric physiatrists. Our physicians specialize in the rehabilitation care and medical management of children who have experienced traumatic injuries and congenital conditions that affect development.

We have a team approach, with the parent and child at the center of the team. Our physicians will work with you, your child's therapists, and other members of the medical team to assess your needs and goals for your child and to design and implement an individualized treatment plan to help your child overcome difficulties and increase independence in activities of daily living.

Physiatrists have expertise in the prescription of equipment, orthoses, and the management of muscle tone, which are often incorporated into the treatment plan. Our team provides care for your child from infancy through adolescence and will help with the transition of care into adulthood.
